With power demand creeping up, it's time to harness the sun. In this episode, we design a fully custom solar blueprint from scratch, no premade designs, no shortcuts.

Solar is trivial for the game engine to calculate (just 60kW  $\times$  insolation  $\times$  number of panels, and similar for accumulators) whereas nuclear leans on the fluid mechanics engine for heat flow, water, and steam.

Space Exploration not only adds additional tiers of solar panels and accumulators, but makes use of the game engine to give uniqueness to every location in game.
